South Gaining in Fight on 'Civil Rights'

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's civil rights bill starts out on crutches. Southern Democrats already have done it damage and thus have won part of their fight against it.

They have convinced a growing number of non-Southern senators that this measure goes too far and needs toning down through amendments, even though many of them appear willing to vote for some kind of civil rights bill.

Southerners want it amended until it's toothless. Even if they get that, they may try to filibuster it to death. Their leaders have said their aim is to kill it.

For more than a week they argued against even letting the bill come up for consideration. They were outvoted on that yesterday. Now the real fight begins, for today the bill itself is before the Senate where it can be amended.

Eisenhower backed the bill again after the vote, asking that it be passed without major changes. A small number of the bill's supporters — like Senators Douglas (D-Ill.), Javits (R-N.Y.), Potter (R-Mich.), McNamara (D-Mich.) — oppose compromise.

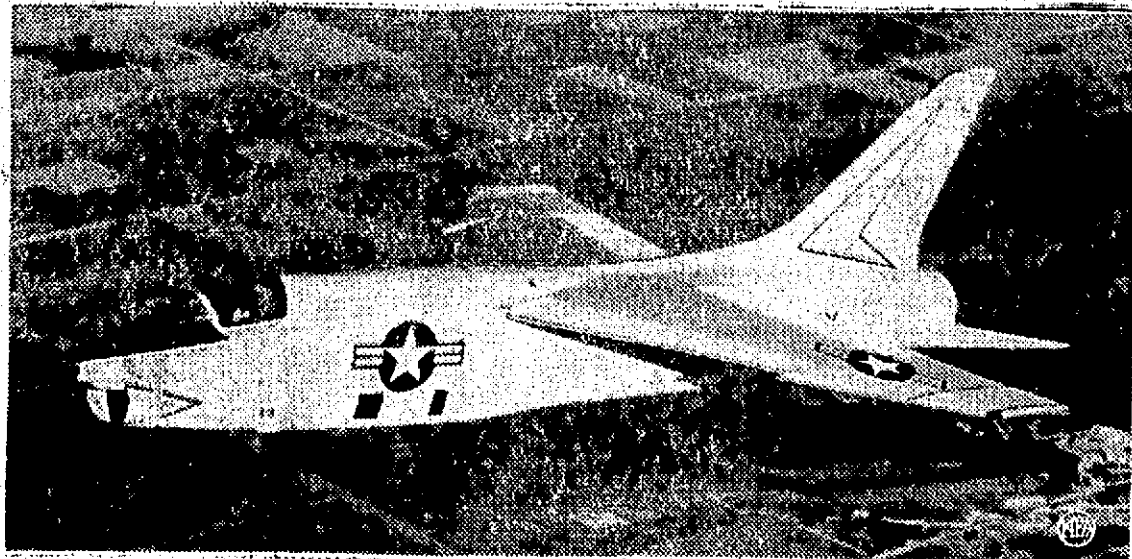

But Sen. Gore, Tennessee Democrat who broke with his fellow Southerners at least temporarily by voting last night to bring up the bill for debate, has said: "I don't think there are 10 senators left who want the bill as it stands."

He's been talking with some of his colleagues about drafting a complete substitute. And last night immediately after the vote to bring up the bill, Sen. Anderson (D-N.M.) offered an amendment to knock out the bill's No. 3 section.

Of the four sections in the bill it's No. 3 which has approved the Southerners most. Under No. 3 the attorney general could move in against a wide variety of civil rights violations, not just cases involving voting rights.

And Anderson's fellow Democrat from New Mexico, Sen. Chavez, is against part of Section No. 4.

Texarkanian Electrocuted

TEXARKANA, (AP) — Alva Eugene Lambert, 56-year-old electrician, was accidentally electrocuted yesterday while working beneath a house. Authorities said he apparently fell against a 2,200-volt wire while installing air conditioning equipment.

Former Hope Woman, Child, Husband Killed

A former Hope woman and her husband and small son were killed Tuesday when their sedan collided with a loaded hay truck and burned on U. S. Highway 30 four miles west of Glenns Ferry, Idaho.

They were Mr. and Mrs. William Saeler and their 7-year-old son Samuel Walter Saeler, 4314 Elizabeth St., Texarkana, Texas — en route to Oregon and California on vacation.

Mrs. Saeler is the former Earma Greer, daughter of Mrs. H. L. Volentine, 205 N. Hazel St., Hope. The driver of the hay truck, Bill Harris, 20, of Nampa, Idaho, was hospitalized with serious burns at Mountain Home in that state.

Besides her mother, Mrs. Saeler is survived by a son, Wallace Foster of Texarkana; six sisters, Mrs. Cecil Rogers of Texarkana; Mrs. J. D. Standridge of Suisun City, Calif.; Mrs. Herschel Henson of Dallas, Ore.; Mrs. Vernon Yancey, Mrs. R. D. Taylor, and Pat Volentine, all of Hope; and two brothers, Kelsey Volentine of Texarkana; and James Volentine of Hope; and two grandchildren.

The bodies are being returned to Texarkana where East Funeral Home said today funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Man Can't Save Himself Says Graham

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Graham told a capacity audience of 19,200 at Madison Square Garden last night that he — like anyone else — cannot bring about his own salvation.

"Jesus Christ is the savior," the evangelist said. "God by His mercy and death on the cross has saved us — if you'll let him."

The filled arena, bringing total attendance of Graham's New York crusade to 1,055,200, forced Garden attendants to deny admission to another 2,500 persons waiting outside. Graham spoke a few words to the assembly prior to his sermon.

At Graham's call, 530 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ," bringing the overall total of such decisions to 13,122. One elderly man fainted, as he walked to make a "decision," and was revived by a doctor and crusade attendants.

Graham announced that the crusade executive committee would meet Friday to decide whether to extend the revival past its scheduled closing date on Saturday. No decision was made at yesterday's committee meeting, the evangelist reported. He said the committee would "pray for divine guidance" before reaching a final decision.

Since the crusade started May 15, Graham said, "the spirit of God is moving like a river in this city. It's not me, Billy Graham, it's Jesus Christ."

Graham chose Mark 10:46 as his text, it related to a blind beggar, Bartimaeus, who had his sight restored after declaring absolute faith in Jesus Christ.

Man has two sets of eyes, spiritual and physical, the evangelist said. People who do not declare themselves for God are "as blind as that man in the Bible," he said.

He said mankind is often blinded to worldly pursuits such as fame and fortune. Hollywood was cited as an example. He described it as "a net cage of the most miserable people on earth."

Graham said the Devil "has a blinded mankind's eyes to God. 'Christ, can you open your year — if you'll let him come to you,' he said."

Ike Can't See Using Troops Against South

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today a meeting of Russia's Marshal Zhukov and Secretary of Defense Wilson might prove useful.

Eisenhower made the comment at a news conference which ranged into foreign affairs, but also dealt heavily with a prime domestic subject — the administration's pending civil rights bill.

On the latter subject, Eisenhower said he could not imagine any circumstances which would induce him to try to enforce school segregation through use of troops.

Some felt the civil rights bill have contained it would open the way to military enforcement.

The President's suggestion that a Zhukov-Wilson meeting might be worthwhile stemmed from a request for comment on the recent shakeup of the Kremlin top command.

On that point, Eisenhower said in his opinion the shakeup resulted from fundamental changes within the Soviet government.

Eisenhower recalled that he and Zhukov, now Soviet defense minister, became quite well acquainted at the end of World War II. They were both in Berlin at the time.

The President went on to say that he and Zhukov at that time cooperated very closely, and that a Zhukov-Wilson meeting at the time might prove profitable by bringing together defense ministers of the two countries.

The President also discussed these topics: ATOMIC STOCKPILE — As Secretary of State Dulles did yesterday, Eisenhower said this country is considering the possibility of putting a stockpile of atomic weapons at the disposal of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He said further, however, that there is no specific program "on that at this time."

A reporter suggested that such a program might be logical in the light of current disarmament talks. Eisenhower disagreed, saying NATO was created to help our allies defend themselves — and that the means and methods of doing so should be made available to them.

DISARMAMENT — He said he is dead set against recessing the current London disarmament talks on the basis of anyone there being tired or discouraged. He said there are sometimes good reasons for a recess so that representatives of the various countries can consult with their governments, but no excuse whatever for getting discouraged.

MANPOWER — The President also said there is no connection between the disarmament talks and yesterday's Pentagon announcement that U. S. armed forces will be cut by 100,000 men by the end of this year.

Discussing the projected manpower reduction, Eisenhower said both he and Secretary Wilson believe the United States at present is a little stronger in manpower than is necessary. Just precisely how much, he said, is not yet known.

Blevins Meet Thursday on Road Proposal

Blacktopping of the road from Blevins to State Highway 10 will be discussed by community leaders and County Judge U. G. Garret in a special meeting at Blevins at 7:30 this Thursday night.

Glenn Is New Speed King of U. S. Aviation

NEW YORK (AP) — A freckle-faced Marine major who has "a lot of fun flying" is the nation's new transcontinental speed king.

Maj. John Glenn Jr., Washington, D.C., shot across the country in a Navy jet plane yesterday in a record-breaking 3 hours, 23 minutes and 34 seconds.

"Everything was smooth as silk," he said. Glenn, 30, a red-haired combat veteran with a boxer's build, hit a top speed of over 1,000 m.p.h.

Flying at 1,000 miles an hour you don't feel speed as much as you do driving 70 way," he said. "Speed is just something you read on the dials."

Glenn jockeyed his swept-wing F8U Chance-Vought Crusader at an average unofficial speed of 725 m.p.h., faster than the speed of sound. He covered 2,460 miles on the flight from Los Alamitos, Calif., Naval Air Station to Brooklyn's Floyd Bennett Field.

The old cross-country record was 3 hours 41 minutes and 53.88 seconds set by an Air Force pilot last March.

Glenn flashed a wide grin after he pulled off his golden helmet and climbed down from the cockpit of his silvery plane. His wife, Ann and their children, David, 11, and Lynn, 10, were the first to greet him.

Glenn reached into his tan flight coveralls and pulled out souvenirs for the children. "Here's your superionic knife, Dave, and here's your superionic cat, Lynn."

David had given his father his Boy Scout knife and Lynn had given him a little gold Siamese cat charm.

"The kids wanted something superionic to remember the flight," Glenn explained.

Glenn, a former New Concord, Ohio, resident, is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. He has three Distinguished Flying Crosses and 17 Air Medals.

He said he would like to try the transcontinental flight "all over again tomorrow."

"It's a real kick," he said. "Anybody would like to try something like this."

Who Wants to Live Forever? Hal Boyle Asks; and Replies 'Just About Everyone Does'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the great goals of science today is to make men live longer.

Some people even entertain the fond hope a way will be found to permit them to clutter up the world forever.

Rare indeed does a scientist such as Enrico Groppe of Italy arise to sound a note of caution to these would-be seekers after eternal life.

Addressing an international convention in Rome on the problems of gerontology, Groppe said: "Old age is a fate we must accept. We gerontologists must not be asked to bring along a theory on how to achieve new youth. It would be undignified and morally wrong."

Extra Session Urged to Bail Out State Roads

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three members of the Legislature today urged a special session of General Assembly to tap state reserve funds to lift the Highway Department out of a temporary financial plight.

The idea got unanimous support from contractors who had to discuss with the Arkansas Highway Commission an impending $5-million-dollar shortage in highway funds between now and Jan. 1.

A commissioner said that the idea would not be "disregarded," but indicated that the commission would not make an immediate decision.

The suggestion of a special session was made first by State Sen. Jerry Sereton of Hazen, who said he did not understand why the commission was "reluctant" about such a move.

Commission Chairman Glenn Wallace of Nashville replied that the commission had no objection to a special session but did not think it should "instigate one."

Sereton said he did not see why since the commission was "the custodian of the people's highways."

Rep. Jack East Jr. of Pulaski County and State Sen. Artie Gregory of North Little Rock said they agreed with Sereton.

East is an executive of a surety company which often writes contractors' bonds. Sereton and Gregory are contractors.

East declared that "there are a lot more people concerned in this than the people in this room," referring to the contractors, material men, bonding company representatives and others who attended today's session.

East said that he thought the entire economy of the state would be affected adversely by a low-up in highway construction.

Sereton advocated the proposed special session as being "more dignified" than a proposal that contractors take certain payment in debtedness as a certificate of indebtedness as part of payment.

He said that arrangements could be made to repay any money from state funds over a period of several years while under any other method of temporary financing the commission would have to pay back the money in a period of three or four months.

Nobody said just what reserve state funds they would advocate using for a loan to the Highway Commission, but the proponents of this method all said such funds were available.

A special session would be the second relating to highway matters since the regular session ended last March. It would have to be called by Gov. Orval Faubus, who has frequently indicated that he has not always been in full accord with Highway Commission policies.

As the conference started, Neill Bohlinger, an attorney for the commission, outlined a suggestion for additional withholding on partial payments to contractor. He Continued on Page Two

Store Is Wrecked by Woman's Car

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Miss Mildred Duvall felt like a bull in a china shop today.

After a 2-car collision on a downtown thoroughfare, police said, Miss Duvall's car was hurled through the show window of a glass company. Smashed mirrors and glass of every description littered the floor.

Neither the 35-year-old woman nor the other driver was injured, police said.

TV Camera Held to Be No Interference in Courtroom Initial Test at Texarkana

By JOHN R. STARR

TEXARKANA, (AP) — Television as a courtroom news medium went on trial here last week and the unofficial verdict was "not guilty" of interference with court proceedings.

Station KCMC-TV filed the murder trial of James Moore for presentation of later newscasts, setting an Arkansas precedent. It was the first time that television coverage of a criminal trial has been allowed in Arkansas.

Cameras recorded every minute of the proceedings as Moore, an 18-year-old Negro, was convicted and sentenced to death for the slaying of an elderly white man.

Miller Circuit Judge Lyle Brown, who defied Canon 35 of the American Bar Association in permitting cameras to turn, said, "In my opinion, television coverage of court trials is definitely the coming order of reporting."

Neither Judge Brown, Prosecutor Travis Mathis nor defense attorney Harold Flowers of Pine Bluff thought KCMC-TV's coverage interfered with the conduct of the trial.

Two cameras filmed proceedings through a one-way mirror, one foot in diameter, which the station had installed in a rear door of the courtroom. Cameras were at no time visible in the courtroom.

Bill Gill, KCMC-TV news director, said his station was quite pleased with the results of the experiment. He estimated total cost of trial coverage at $270. Film was shown on three newscasts daily during the 3-day run of the trial and highlights were repeated Sunday. A portion of the film was shown nationally by CBS.

Gill estimated the 2 hours and 50 minutes of actual air time were used for showing of the films.

Gill was amazed at the excellence of films produced by chief cameraman Bill McBroon and an assistant, "McBroon worked for several days checking court room lighting so he would get the right camera settings," Gill said. "The result was almost as good as daylight photography."

Cameras used both standard and telephoto lenses and the latter provided good, sharp closeups of witnesses.

Flowers, who objected to the coverage before the trial started on grounds that it might erode against his client, said, "I was not distracted in presentation of this case."

Flowers stayed over an extra night after the trial to view the complete film and his remarks were complementary, Gill said.

Mathis, who lives in Arkadelphia, telephoned long distance to commend Gill for the coverage.

Gill, who said he had been working a year to get permission to televise a trial in Arkansas, said the precedent set here would be used to open courts all over Arkansas to such coverage.

He said he got Judge Brown's permission only after numerous interviews with the judge and attorney.

Baptist Budget Is Up Slightly for Next Year

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Executive Committee of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention has approved a 1½ million dollar budget for Baptist activities next year — a slight increase over 1957's figure of $1,497,771.99.

At a meeting here yesterday, the convention indicated that it is considering establishment of a college in Pulaski County.

SPA Man Honored

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — H. R. Hestand, former mayor of Fort Smith, has been re-elected president of the United Cerebral Palsy of Arkansas, Inc., at a meeting here. Other officers named yesterday are Mrs. J. S. Jenkins of Pine Bluff, first vice president; William Norton Gentry of Little Rock second vice president; Jon B. Mask of Hot Springs, secretary, and Dave Porter of Fort Smith, treasurer.

Official Held for Death of His Wife

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A second degree murder charge was placed against the superintendent of the Daytona Beach humane society after he admitted he jabbed into his wife's stomach two shots of an anesthetic he kept to kill "small kittens and dogs."

Walter R. Hoffman, 44, said yesterday the act followed a day of beer drinking. He told State Atty. W. W. Judge he made the injections as his wife said "sugaring in a chair." He said he had no idea why she did it.

"My wife was the best woman in the world," Hoffman told the state attorney. "That's why I can't understand any of this. I've been begging the Lord to give me an answer."

Mrs. Hoffman died an hour after the shots were injected.

Hoffman said he was haunted by the trust and friendliness of animals he had been forced to put to sleep.

"Something may have gone wrong with me somewhere because it's really bothered me, putting those animals to sleep," Hoffman said. Hoffman is also the city dog warden.

State Girl Is Finalist for Miss U. S. A.

By JOHN BECKLER

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Fifteen of the prettiest girls in America still were in the running today in the contest to pick the United States' representative in the Miss Universe contest.

The beautiful survivors of the first night's competition will parade their charms before the judges again tonight. The winner will become Miss U. S. A., who will then take her place in a field of 33 of the fairest of this and many other lands.

Chosen from among 44 American entrants after appearing before the judges, first in evening gowns then in bathing suits, were:

Miss Arkansas, Helen Elizabeth Garret, 19, West Memphis; Miss California, Peggy Jacobson, 19, Downey; Miss Illinois, Marianne Gabra, 18, Chicago; Miss Iowa, Judith Ann Hall, 20, Council Bluffs; Miss Maryland, Leona Gage, 21, Glen Burnie; Miss Massachusetts, Sandra Ramsey, 18, Haverhill; Miss Nebraska, Carolyn McGirr, 18, Sidney.

Miss Nevada, Joan Adams, 23, Las Vegas; New York, Samita Pelkey, 21, New York City; Miss Ohio, Kathryn Gabriel, 20, Cleveland; Miss South Carolina, Jean Spotts, 20, Newberry; Miss Texas, Gloria Hunt, 20, Corpus Christi; Miss Utah, Charlotte Sheffield, 20, Salt Lake City; Miss Washington, Diana Schafer, 13, Bellevue; Miss West Virginia, Ruth Marie Parr, 13, Saint Albans.

Their selection brought to an abrupt end the sense of fun and happy anticipation that marks the opening days of the international beauty contest. There were tears and downcast faces among the 29 girls eliminated in the opening round, and most of them made haste to leave the auditorium as crowds of photographers and well-wishers pressed close to the happy winners.

No Money Yet, Authorization Up 3 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 150 million dollars worth of water projects in which Arkansas have a direct interest were included in an omnibus bill approved today by the House Public Works Committee.

All of the projects in the bill would cost about 1½ billion dollars. The bill does not provide money for the projects but gives authorization. Congress would have to appropriate money in a separate action before actual construction could begin.

The bill includes $53,235,000 for the Millwood Reservoir and Little River Reservoirs. Some 50 million already has been authorized for the Millwood dam system, part of which would be constructed in Oklahoma.

Another large item is $57,000,000 for Gilbert Reservoir and Continued on Page Two

Child's Body Brought From Mountain

BRIDGEPORT, Calif. (AP) — The body of 2-year-old David Allen Scott was brought to the mountain community late yesterday after the youngster's death of exposure and exhaustion — was found at the 8,500-foot level of Eagles Peak.

The boy strayed Saturday from the Sierra campsite of his parent, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott of San Diego.

The body, clad only in a T-shirt, red, white and blue socks and one shoe, was found among boulders on the steep slope. He had climbed an incredible 3,000 feet higher than the camp, losing his other little red canvas shoe and his brown play trousers along the way.

Under sheriff Jack Gardner said the child apparently died Saturday night.

Seek ex-Boxer for Effort to Kill Costello

NEW YORK (AP) — Vincent Gigante, a former professional boxer, is being sought as the gunman who attempted to assassinate racketeer Frank Costello, it was learned at police headquarters today.

A police source said the 30-year-old Gigante is the prime suspect in the wounding of Costello on May 2.

It was learned from police sources that Costello — although listed mechanically as complainant in the assault case — did not name Gigante as his assailant.

Gigante came under suspicion as a result of investigation without Costello's aid, it was said.

Official word that Gigante was wanted came after the New York Herald Tribune said today in a copyrighted story that "detectives had been looking for him since shortly after the attempt on Costello's life."

Hours before today's revelation that Gigante was wanted, Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm had said that Gigante was wanted for questioning in connection with the case. But Arm would not say why.

Griggs to Start Dixie All-Star

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Hal
Griggs of his own Chattanooga staff today was named by Southern Association All-Star Manager
Cal Ermer to start on the mound for the Stars at Nashville tomorrow night.

Thus the two top winners in the league will be paired at the start of the game, the third Ermer will have managed.

Opposing righthander Griggs, who has a 13-7 record, will be Nashville's ace righthander, Bob
Kelley, a 10-6 hurler this season.

Other pitchers selected by league writers for the all-star team included George Brunel of Little Rock.

Ermer also announced a change in the starting lineup. He is replacing Little Rock's Eric Rodin with teammate Ben Downs in rightfield to give the Stars another left-handed batter against Kelly.

Whiz Kids Have Won 12 of Last 14

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press Sports Writer

Handsome Jack Sanford, ignored as a major league prospect by the Boston Red Sox 10 years ago because he was too small, stood at least 10 feet tall today in the eyes of Philadelphia's pennant-smelling fans.

The rookie right-hander from Wellesley, Mass., pitched the Phillies into first place in the National League last night by posting a five-hit, 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It marked the first time the Phillies occupied the top rung of the N.L. standings at this stage of the campaign since 1950. And nobody in Philadelphia has to be reminded that was the year the old "Whiz Kids" won the pennant.

This new group of "Whiz Kids" now has won 12 of its last 14 games, moving from fifth place on July 1 to its present elevation
— a half game ahead of the Cardinals. Sanford has been the "big man" in this drive, allowing only 15 hits while posting three straight complete game victories.

In raising his season won and lost record to 12-2 last night against the Cardinals, Sanford took over the major league strikeout leadership whiffing seven men. The blond, blue-eyed New England has totaled 111 strikeouts, one more than Early Wynn of the Cleveland Indians.

Joe Lonnett, who handled Stanford's screaming speedballs, considered it one of his best pitched games to date.

"He was as fast as ever," said the Philadelphia catcher, rubbing a beef-red hand. "He had good control and he was mixing his speed on his curve balls."

The only St. Louis player who gave Sanford trouble was Alvin Dark. The veteran shortstop tripled in the fourth and scored on Stan Musial's sacrifice fly, then homered in the eighth to account for both St. Louis runs.

However, Willie Jones treated Sanford to a 2-0 lead in the second inning with a two-run homer and the Phillies chased Vinegar Bend Mizell in the third with a four-run burst, featured by Granny Hamner's two-run double.

The Brooklyn Dodgers walloped the Milwaukee Braves, 20-4, and the New York Giants whipped the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, in other N. L. action. The Washington Senators raced to a 10-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics in the only American League game.

The Dodgers clubbed five Milwaukee pitchers for 16 hits, including a pair of home runs by Charley Neal, in moving to within two games of the lead. Duke Snider, Sandy Amoros and winning pitcher Don Drysdale also homered for the Dodgers, who hustled to a 9-1 lead within four innings and then added a nine-run burst in the eighth frame.

Willie Mays, whose 12th inning home run crushed the Cubs Sunday, turned on his Chicago "cousins" for the second straight day with a two-run circuit in the third inning that provided the Giants with their winning margin. Johnny Atonell picked up his ninth victory, although he needed relief from Al Worthington in the eighth inning. Don Mueller also homered for the Giants.

Rus Kermmerer hit his first major league home run and scattered 12 hits in pitching the Senators to their victory over the Athletics. Lou Zerborer and Faye Thorneberry also homered for Washington and Tim Thompson clouted one for Kansas City.

South Gaining in Fight on 'Civil Rights'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's civil rights bill starts out on crutches. Southern Democrats already have done it damage and thus have won part of their fight against it.

They have convinced a growing number of non-Southern senators that this measure goes too far and needs toning down through amendments, even though many of them appear willing to vote for some kind of civil rights bill.

Southerners want it amended until it is toothless. Even if they get that, they may try to filibuster it to death. Their leaders have said their aim is to kill it.

For more than a week they argued against even letting the bill come up for consideration. They were outvoted on that yesterday. Now the real fight begins for today the bill itself is before the Senate where it can be amended.

Eisenhower backed the bill again after the vote, asking that it be passed without major changes. A small number of the bill's supporters — like Senators Douglas (D-Ill.), Javits (R-N.Y.), Potter (R-Mich.), McNamara (D-Mich.) — oppose compromise.

But Sen. Gore, Tennessee Democrat who broke with his fellow Southerners at least temporarily by voting last night to bring up the bill for debate, has said: "I don't think there are 10 senators left who want the bill as it stands."

He's been talking with some of his colleagues about drafting a complete substitute. And last night immediately after the vote to bring up the bill, Sen. Anderson (D-NM) offered an amendment to knock out the bill's No. 3 section.

Of the four sections in the bill it's No. 3 which has approved the Southerners most. Under No. 3 the attorney general could move in against a wide variety of civil rights violations, not just cases involving voting rights.

And Anderson's fellow Democrat from New Mexico, Sen. Chavez, is against part of Section No. 4.

Teamsters' Oregon Chief Acquitted

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The head of the Teamsters' Union in Oregon was acquitted last night of a charge of conspiracy to accept a bribe while serving on a Portland city commission.

Clyde C. Crosby dropped his head on his chest when the verdict was announced, closed his eyes momentarily and then flashed a broad grin at the jury. The State Circuit Court jury of seven women and five men deliberated 2 hours and 48 minutes before returning the unanimous verdict of not guilty. The jury took only one vote.

Thus ended the latest major trial stemming from Portland's lengthy vice investigation. Crosby, the Teamsters' international representative in Oregon, had been charged with conspiring to place the site of an eight-million-dollar sports center here. The prosecution said Crosby and others conspired to obtain property options at the site.

The 42-year-old Crosby said he favored the Broadway steel bridge site here. That was when the state said the options were obtained.

But the commission charged with electing a site chose another location, only to have the Broadway area picked at a general election.

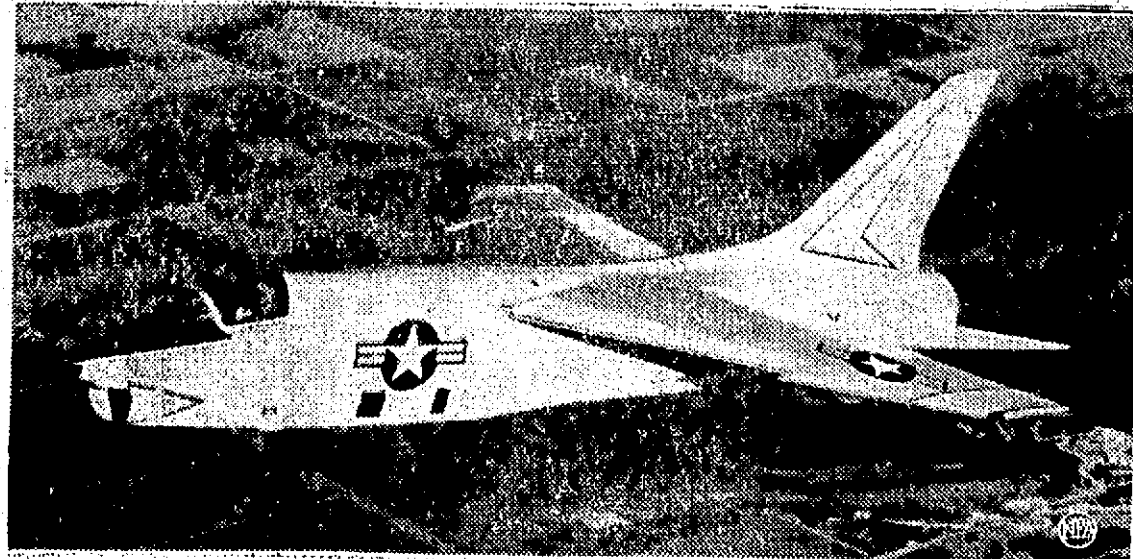

The prosecution told the jury in its closing argument that its entire case rested on the testimony of racketeer Big Jim Elkins.

Elkins had testified that Crosby was in on a plot to obtain options at the sports center site. Crosby denied the charge from the witness stand.

Of the 10 trials thus far in the probe, two have ended in verdicts of innocent. Bartley, Mayor Terry Schriek was acquitted of a perjury charge.

Former Hope Woman, Child, Husband Killed

A former Hope woman and her husband and small son were killed Tuesday when their sedan collided with a loaded hay truck and burned on U. S. Highway 30 four miles west of Glenns Ferry, Idaho.

They were Mr. and Mrs. William Saeler and their 7-year-old son Samuel Walter Saeler, 4314 Elizabeth St., Texarkana, Texas — en route to Oregon and California on vacation.

Mrs. Saeler is the former Earma Greer, daughter of Mrs. H. L. Volentine, 205 N. Hazel St., Hope. The driver of the hay truck, Bill Harris, 20, of Nampa, Idaho, was hospitalized with serious burns at Mountain Home in Idaho state.

Besides her mother, Mrs. Saeler is survived by a son, Wallace Foster, of Texarkana; six sisters, Mrs. Cecil Foster of Texarkana; Mrs. J. D. Standridge of Suisun City, Calif.; Mrs. Herschel Henson of Dallas, Ore.; Mrs. Vernon Yancy, Mrs. R. D. Taylor, and Paul Volentine, all of Hope; and two brothers, Kelsey Volentine of Texarkana; and James Volentine of Hope; and two grandchildren.

The bodies are being returned to Texarkana where East Funeral Home said today funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Man Can't Save Himself Says Graham

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Graham told a capacity audience of 19,200 at Madison Square Garden last night that he — like anyone else — cannot bring about his own salvation.

"Jesus Christ is the savior," the evangelist said. "God by His mercy and death on the cross has saved us — if you'll let him."

The filled arena, bringing total attendance of Graham's New York crusade to 1,055,200, forced Garden attendees to deny admission to another 2,500 persons waiting outside. Graham spoke a few words to the assembly prior to his sermon.

At Graham's call, 530 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ," bringing the overall total of such decisions to 83,122. One elderly man fainted as he walked to make a "decision," and was revived by a doctor and crusade attendants.

Graham announced that the crusade executive committee would meet Friday to decide whether to extend the revival past its scheduled closing date on Saturday. No decision was made at yesterday's committee meeting, the evangelist reported. He said the committee would "pray for divine guidance" before reaching a final decision.

Since the crusade started May 15, Graham said, "the spirit of God is moving like a river in this city. It's not me, Billy Graham, it's Jesus Christ."

Graham chose Mark 10:46 as his text, it related to a blind beggar, Bartimaeus, who had his sight restored after declaring absolute faith in Jesus Christ.

Man has two sets of eyes, spiritual and physical, the evangelist said. People who do not declare themselves for God are "as blind as that man in the Bible," he said.

He said mankind is often blinded to worldly pursuits such as fame and fortune. Hollywood was cited as an example. He described it as "a rat race of the most miserable people on earth."

Graham said the Devil had blinded mankind's eyes to God. "Christ can open your eyes — if you'll let him come to you," he said.

By MARVIN L. ARROWEMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today a meeting of Russia's Mikhail Zhukov and Secretary of Defense Wilson might prove useful.

Eisenhower made the comment at a news conference which ranged into foreign affairs, but also dealt heavily with a prime domestic subject — the administration's pending civil rights bill.

On the latter subject, Eisenhower said he could not imagine any circumstances which would induce him to try to enforce school desegregation through use of troops. Some feared the civil rights bill have contained it would open the way to military enforcement.

The President's suggestion that a Zhukov-Wilson meeting might be worthwhile stemmed from a request for comment on a recent shakeup of the Kremlin top command.

On that point, Eisenhower said in his opinion the shakeup resulted from fundamental changes within the Soviet government.

Eisenhower recalled that he and Zhukov, now Soviet defense minister, became quite well acquainted at the end of World War II. They were both in Berlin at the time.

The President went on to say that he and Zhukov at that time cooperated very closely, and that a Zhukov-Wilson meeting at the time might prove profitable by bringing together defense ministers of the two countries.

"The President also discussed these topics: ATOMIC STOCKPILE — As Secretary of State Dulles did yesterday, Eisenhower said this country is considering the possibility of putting a stockpile of atomic weapons at the disposal of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He said further, however, that there is no specific program "on that at this time. A reporter suggested that such a program might be logical in the light of current disarmament talks. Eisenhower disagreed, saying NATO was created to help our allies defend themselves — and that the means and methods of doing so should be made available to them.

DISARMAMENT — He said he is dead set against recessing the current London disarmament talks on the basis of anyone there being tired or discouraged. He said there are sometimes good reasons for a recess so that representatives of the various countries can consult with their governments, but no excuse whatever for getting discouraged.

MANPOWER — The President also said there is no connection between the disarmament talks and yesterday's Pentagon announcement that U. S. armed forces will be cut by 100,000 men by the end of this year.

Discussing the projected manpower reduction, Eisenhower said both he and Secretary Wilson believe the United States at present is a little stronger in manpower than is necessary. Just precisely how much, he said, is not yet known.

Blevins Meet Thursday on Road Proposal

Blacktopping of the road from Blevins to State Highway 19 will be discussed by community leaders and County Judge U. G. Garret in a special meeting at Blevins at 7:30 this Thursday night.

A full attendance from the Blevins area is urged by the meeting's sponsors.

Glenn Is New Speed King of U. S. Aviation

NEW YORK (AP) — A freckle-faced Marine major who has "a lot of fun flying" is the nation's new transcontinental speed king.

Maj. John Glenn Jr., Washington, D.C., shot across the country in a Navy jet plane yesterday in a record-breaking 3 hours, 23 minutes and 8.4 seconds.

"Everything was smooth as silk," he said. Glenn, 36, a red-haired combat veteran with a boxer's build, hit a top speed of over 1,000 m.p.h.

"Flying at 1,000 miles an hour you don't feel speed as much as you do driving 70 way," he said. "Speed is just what you read on the dials."

Glenn jockeyed his swept-wing F8U1 Chance-Vought Crusader at an average unofficial speed of 726 m.p.h., faster than the speed of sound. He covered 2,460 miles on the flight from Los Alamitos, Calif., Naval Air Station to Brooklyn's Floyd Bennett Field.

The old cross-country record was 3 hours, 44 minutes and 53.8 seconds set by an Air Force pilot last March.

Glenn flashed a wide grin after he pulled off his golden helmet and climbed down from the cockpit of his silvery plane. His wife, Ann and their children, David, 11, and Lynn, 10, were the first to greet him.

Glenn reached into his tan flight coveralls and pulled out souvenirs for the children. "Here's your superionic knife, Dave, and here's your superionic cat, Lynn."

David had given his father his Boy Scout knife and Lynn had given him a little gold Siamese cat charm.

"The kids wanted something superionic to remember the flight," Glenn explained.

Glenn, a former New Concord, Ohio, resident, is a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. He has three Distinguished Flying Crosses and 17 Air Medals.

He said he would like to try the transcontinental flight "all over again tomorrow."

"It's a real kick," he said. "Anybody would like to try something like this."

Who Wants to Live Forever? Hal Boyle Asks; and Replies 'Just About Everyone Does'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the great goals of science today is to make men live longer.

Some people even entertain the fond hope a way will be found to permit them to slither up the world forever.

Barely indeed does a scientist such as Enrico Greppi of Italy arise to sound a note of caution in these would-be seekers after eternal life.

Addressing an international convention in Rome on the problems of gerontology, Greppi said: "Old age is a fate we must accept. We gerontologists must be asked to bring along a theory on how to achieve new youth. It would be undignified and morally wrong."

There is a great common sense in this observation. And to tell the truth, science, for all its victories in enabling man to live out his

Extra Session Urged to Bail Out State Roads

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three members of the Legislature today urged a special session of General Assembly to tap state reserve funds to lift the Highway Department out of a temporary financial plight.

The idea got unanimous support from contractors who met to discuss with the Arkansas Highway Commission an impending 3-million-dollar shortage in highway funds between now and Jan. 1.

A commissioner said that the idea would not be "disregarded," but indicated that the commission would not make an immediate decision.

The suggestion of a special session was made first by State Sen. Jerry Screton of Hazen, who said he did not understand why the commission was "reluctant" about such a move.

Commission Chairman Glenn Wallace of Nashville replied that the commission had no objection to a special session but did not think it should "instigate one."

Screton said he did not see why the commission was "the custodian of the people's highways."

Rep. Jack East Jr. of Pulaski County and State Sen. Artie Gregory of North Little Rock said they agreed with Screton.

East is an executive of a surety company which often writes contractors' bonds. Screton and Gregory are contractors.

East declared that "there are a lot more people concerned in this than the people in this room," referring to the contractors, material men, bonding company representatives and others who attended today's session.

East said that he thought the entire economy of the state would be affected adversely by a lay-up in highway construction.

Screton advocated the proposed special session as being "more dignified" than a proposal that contractors take certificates of indebtedness as partial payment and borrow money on them from banks. He said that arrangements could be made to repay any money from state funds over a period of several years while under any other method of temporary financing, the commission would have to pay back the money in a period of three or four months.

Nobody said just what reserve state funds they would advocate using for a loan to the Highway Commission, but the proponents of this method all said such funds were available.

A special session would be the second relating to highway matters since the regular session ended last March. It would have to be called by Gov. Orval Faubus, who has frequently indicated that he has not always been in full accord with Highway Commission policies.

As the conference started, Neil Bohlinger, an attorney for the commission, outlined a suggestion for additional withholding on partial payments to contractor. He

Store Is Wrecked by Woman's Car

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Miss Milvred Duval felt like a bull in a China shop today.

After a 2-car collision on a downtown thoroughfare, police said, Miss Duval's car was hurled through the show window of a glass company. Smashed mirrors and glass of every description littered the floor.

Neither the 35-year-old woman nor the other driver was injured, police said.

TV Camera Held to Be No Interference in Courtroom Initial Test at Texarkana

By JOHN R. STARR

TEXARKANA, (AP) — Television as a courtroom news medium went on trial here last week and the unofficial verdict was "not guilty" of interference with court proceedings.

Station KCMC-TV filed the murder trial of James Moore for presentation of later newscasts, setting an Arkansas precedent. It was the first time that television coverage of a criminal trial has been allowed in Arkansas.

Cameras recorded every minute of the proceedings as Moore, an 18-year-old Negro, was convicted and sentenced to death for the slaying of an elderly white man.

Miller Circuit Judge Lyle Brown, who defied Canon 35 of the American Bar Association in permitting cameras to turn, said, "In my opinion, television coverage of court trials is definitely the coming order of reporting."

Neither Judge Brown, Prosecutor Travis Mathis nor defense attorney Harold Flowers of Pine Bluff, though KCMC-TV's coverage interfered with the conduct of the trial.

Two cameras filmed proceedings through a one-way mirror, one foot in diameter, which the station had installed in a rear door of the court room. Cameras were at no time visible in the court room.

Bill Gill, KCMC-TV news director, said his station was quite pleased with the results of the experiment. He estimated total cost of trial coverage at $276. Film was shown on three newscasts daily during the 3-day run of the trial and highlights were repeated Sunday.

A portion of the film was shown nationally by CBS. Gill estimated the 2 hours and 50 minutes of actual air time were used for showing of the films.

Gill was amazed at the excellence of films produced by chief cameraman Bill McDoom and an assistant. "McDoom worked for several days checking court room lighting so he would get the right camera settings," Gill said. "The result was almost as good as daylight photography."

Cameras used both standard and telephoto lenses and the latter provided good, sharp closeups of witnesses.

Flowers, who objected to the coverage before the trial started on grounds that it might erode against his client, said, "I was not disturbed in presentation of this case."

Flowers stayed over an extra night after the trial to view the complete film and his remarks were complimentary, Gill said. Mathis, who lives in Arkadelphia, telephoned long distance to commend Gill for the coverage.

Gill, who said he had been working a year to get permission to televise a trial in Arkansas, said the precedent set here would be used to open courts all over Arkansas to such coverage.

He said he got Judge Brown's permission only after numerous interviews with the judge and attorney.

Baptist Budget Is Up Slightly for Next Year

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Executive Committee of the Arkansas Baptist State Convention has approved a 1½ million dollar budget for Baptist activities next year — a slight increase over 1957's figure of $1,497,771.09.

At a meeting here yesterday, the convention indicated that it is considering establishment of a college in Pulaski County.

A surprise development occurred at the meeting when Roy, Ben L. Bridges, who once pulled the convention from the verge of bankruptcy, announced that he would resign as executive secretary of the Executive Board and the Rev. Mr. Bridges said he wished the resignation to become effective at the end of August. He has held the post for 26 years.

The new budget must be approved by the full convention at Little Rock when it meets Nov. 19-21.

Official Held for Death of His Wife

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A second degree murder charge was placed against the superintendent of the Daytona Beach humane society after he admitted he jabbed into his wife's stomach two shots of an anesthetic he kept to kill "small kittens and dogs."

Walter R. Hoffman, 44, said yesterday the act followed a day of beer drinking. He told State Atty. W. W. Judge he made the injections as his wife sat "singing in a chair." He said he had no idea why he did it.

"My wife was the best woman in the world," Hoffman told the state attorney. "That's why I can't understand any of this. I've been begging the Lord to give me an answer."

Mrs. Hoffman died an hour after the shots were injected.

Hoffman said he was haunted by the trust and friendliness of animals he had been forced to put to sleep.

"Something may have gone wrong with me somewhere because it's really bothered me, putting those animals to sleep," Hoffman said. Hoffman is also the city dog warden.

State Girl Is Finalist for Miss U. S. A.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Fifteen of the prettiest girls in America still were in the running today in the contest to pick the United States' representative in the Miss Universe contest.

The beautiful survivors of the first night's competition will parade their charms before the judges again tonight. The winner will then take her place in a field of 33 of the fairest of this and many other lands.

Chosen from among 44 American entrants after appearing before the judges, first in evening gowns then in bathing suits, were:

Miss Arkansas, Helen Elizabeth Garret, 19, West Memphis; Miss California, Peggy Jacobson, 16, Downey; Miss Illinois, Marianne Gaba, 19, Chicago; Miss Iowa, Judith Ann Hall, 20, Council Bluffs; Miss Maryland, Leona Gage, 21, Glen Burnie; Miss Massachusetts, Sandra Ramsey, 18, Haverhill; Miss Nebraska, Carolyn McChir, 18, Sidney.

Miss Nevada, Joan Adams, 23, Las Vegas; New York, Samita Felkey, 21, New York City; Miss Ohio, Kathryn Gabriel, 20, Cleveland; Miss South Carolina, Jean Spotts, 20, Nebraska; Miss Texas, Gloria Hunt, 20, Corpus Christi; Miss Utah, Charlotte Sheffield, 20, Salt Lake City; Miss Washington, Diana Schaefer, 13, Bellevue; Miss West Virginia, Ruth Marie Parr, 18, Saint Albans.

Their selection brought to an abrupt end the sense of fun and happy anticipation that marks the opening days of the international beauty contest. There were tears and downcast faces among the 29 girls eliminated in the opening round, and most of them made haste to leave the auditorium as crowds of photographers and well-wishers pressed close to the happy winners.

No Money Yet, Authorization Up 3 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 150 million dollars worth of water projects in which Arkansas have a direct interest were included in an omnibus bill approved today by the House Public Works Committee.

All of the projects in the bill would cost about 1½ billion dollars. The bill does not provide money for the projects but gives authorization. Congress would have to appropriate money in a separate action before actual construction could begin.

The bill includes $53,235,000 for the Millwood Reservoir and Little River Reservoirs. Some 50 million already has been authorized for the Millwood dam system, part of which would be constructed in Oklahoma.

Another large item is $67,000,000 for Gilbert Reservoir and

Child's Body Brought From Mountain

BRIDGEPORT, Calif. (AP) — The body of a 2-year-old David Allen Scott was brought to the mountain community late yesterday after too long a stay of exposure and exhaustion was found at the 8,500-foot level of Eagles Peak.

The boy strayed Saturday from the Sierra campsite of his parent, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott of San Diego.

The body, clad only in a T-shirt, red, white and blue socks and one shoe, was found among boulders on the steep slope. He had climbed an incredible 3,000 feet higher than the camp, losing his other little red canvas shoe and his brown play trousers along the way.

Under sheriff Jack Gardner said the child apparently died Saturday night.

Seek ex-Boxer for Effort to Kill Costello

NEW YORK (AP) — Vincent Gigante, a former professional boxer, is being sought as the gunman who attempted to assassinate racketeer Frank Costello. It was learned at police headquarters today.

A police source said the 30-year-old Gigante is the prime suspect in the wounding of Costello on May 2.

It was learned from police sources that Costello — although listed mechanically as complainant in the assault case — did not name Gigante as his assailant.

Gigante came under suspicion as a result of investigation without Costello's aid, it was said.

Official word that Gigante was wanted came after the New York Herald Tribune said today in a copyrighted story that detectives had been looking for him since shortly after the attempt on Costello's life.

Hours before today's revelation that Gigante was wanted, Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm had said that Gigante was wanted for questioning in connection with the case. But Arm would not say why.

MIDDLE EAST - Asked for comment on the shipment of Soviet arms to some Middle East countries, particularly Egypt and Syria, Eisenhower said such shipments by Russia cannot possibly contribute to peace. The effect, he went on, will be just the opposite.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Eisenhower said today he cannot imagine circumstances which would induce him to send federal troops to enforce civil rights including school integration. Simultaneously, he opened the way to a compromise that might bar the attorney general from acting on his own to enforce desegregation of schools. This section of the administration civil rights bill has been bitterly contested by the South.

Eisenhower's comments were made under questioning at a news conference. He renewed his statement of last night that he wants objectives met in any civil rights bill the Senate finally passes.

Those objectives include enforcement, without jury trial, of voting rights and similar enforcement of "other" civil rights.

I today's meeting with newsmen, Eisenhower was pressed on the question of whether he favors allowing the attorney general on his own motion to go into court for enforcement of integration in schools.

No the President replied, when it is stated that way, without some request from local authorities for action.

Eisenhower was asked his attitude toward an amendment by Sens. Anderson (D-Mo.) and Aiken (R-Va.) which would knock out of the bill a provision under which school integration and desegregation in public places could be enforced by injunctive action.

He was asked if he would be satisfied with a bill which involved only voting rights.

Eisenhower replied that the voting rights aspect of the measure should be emphasized.

Eisenhower said he had been told by some persons that the section of the bill which authorizes injunctive action to enforce civil rights in general - section 3 - might involve great dangers.

Ahead of Eisenhower's discussion of civil rights, Republican senators held a closed-door strategy session to plan for the all-out fight now under way in the Senate.

Two of the numbers, the title song, "Bernardine," and a Calypso tune, "Technique," are by Johnny Mercer, and the ballad, "Love Letters in the Sand," was written by Nick and Charles Kenny and J. Fred Coots. During rehearsals for the "Technique" number, Pot entertained his co-stars Terry Moore, Janet Gaynor and Dean Jagger by playing his oversized ukelele, a gift from Arthur Godfrey.

Chapter III

THE STORY: Friends of Barney Jethroe, who was killed some years ago, have kidnapped the man responsible for his death from Harney Blanchard, a federal marshal. The only person who offers to help Blanchard is Pike Ambrose, a 17-year-old boy who works in a stable.

Roy Wilson's little place on Missouri St. showed no light. Roy was sitting on the porch, alone. He stood up, tall and thin. It was almost like he'd expected it.

"I said, 'This is Harney Blanchard, judge. He was with Dorsey tonight.'"

"I see," Wilson said, a chill in his voice. Wilson was getting old. He liked being judge and they said he "tried to be fair" but he wasn't too smart, they said, and had made some bad mistakes in his time. He said, "And what is it you want of me?"

"Information," Blanchard said. "Somebody in your town took a federal prisoner tonight."

"So," Judge Wilson said, letting himself back into a chair. "I wasn't there, marshal."

Wilson maybe wasn't smart but he was smart enough to be scared. Blanchard said, "Your marshal suit. Nobody's been appointed since. That gives you responsibility, judge."

"It doesn't look like that to me," Wilson said, snapping it out. "My job is to dispose of cases brought before me. I can't apprehend, too."

Blanchard said, "Will you tell me anything about what happened?"

Wilson took out his pipe and rapped it on the step. Wilson said, "It appears, marshal, that you would know more about it than anybody else."

Blanchard stood staring at Wilson for a long time. Then he turned and stepped past me and I followed him out into the street. He walked slower than before, and I trailed along. He didn't get mad, I knew if it was me, I'd be pawing the dirt and grinding my teeth.

Blanchard said, "McNabb said the name Peterson. Where do I find him?"

"Peterson lives down this way," I said, walking off fast. Peterson and that's all. I thought. First thing I knew he'd jail me against a wall and I'd tell everything I knew.

At Peterson's, I faded back into the dark when Jordan Peterson came to the door. He didn't look good, standing there blinking at Blanchard.

"McNabb said I should see you Mr. Peterson," Blanchard said.

"What do you want?"

"I'm Blanchard, United States deputy marshal. A prisoner was taken from me here tonight. McNabb seemed to think you could help."

Peterson grunted deep in his throat. "I don't know what John was thinking. I'm sorry that it happened, of course, but I don't see anything I can do."

Blanchard turned a little and looked off toward me in the dark. He rubbed his eyes, like a tired man will. I saw his shoulders lift when he breathed deep. He turned back to Peterson. He said, "Who appoints your marshals?"

"The Commerce Committee," Peterson said.

"Maybe they'd better appoint one."

"John quit only this evening. It will take time to find another qualified man."

"Why did McNabb quit?"

"I think you'd better ask him."

"All right, Mr. Peterson," Blanchard said, soft.

"Just a minute, marshal," Peterson said, stepping out onto the porch. "When this is over, you'll leave. We have to stay. This is where we live. You have to understand how that is. We don't want trouble."

Blanchard headed for the street. I moved out behind him and then stopped. I could feel Jordan Peterson's eyes drilling my back. I turned and looked and wanted to laugh at him but I didn't dare. He was trying to work it out about me and Blanchard. I could have told him not to fret about it but I thought: What did Jordan Peterson ever do for me?

We walked back to Chicago St. me and Blanchard. In the first light, he stopped an eyeball may shoulder so hard it hurt. He said, "skippy kid, maybe 20 years old."

"Just about," I said.

"Pike, I've got to get Pete back. Not maybe, Got to."

He didn't know anything about the Clements and Barney Jethroe and how things had been for years back. By the time he found out, the way it was going for him, Dorsey would be dead.

He said, "Tell me what you saw at the depot. Tell me who it is, how much time I've got."

Deep lines cut into his face and his eyes snapped. I could see his neck muscles tighten against the skin. I could feel a trap clamping onto me.

"You want to get me killed?" Blanchard grip went slack. He breathed deep. "No," he said, soft.

I started away from there, walking toward the livery. I looked over my shoulder. Blanchard was watching me. It struck me hard what a shape it was, all of it, this tinny town and a fine man like Blanchard. I my mind I could see him walking in the dark all night, not knowing where to look or even what to look for or how much time he had to look.

I took a couple of steps back. "Now you listen," I said. "No need to go off half-cocked. You got some time until Cole Jethroe gets here. That's Barney's brother. They say he'll be in on the train from Chicago and they got to wait."

Canon 35 of the American Bar, which has been adopted by the experience here will give him substantial evidence to take before the state Legal Council in an attempt to get Canon 35 invalidated in Arkansas.

There were no newspaper cameramen at the trial, J. Q. Mahaffey, editor of the Texarkana Gazette and Daily News, said today.

"I'm quite sure the judge would not have allowed them to take pictures under Section 3.

Southerners make big thunder over this too. They argue there must be a jury trial. Chavez supports that. He has taken no part in the squabble so far but says he will not vote for any bill that lacks a jury trial provision.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) suggests the bill be amended to provide a jury trial in voting rights cases. Sen. Mundt (R-SD) goes along with that.

He also goes along with Anderson and the Southerners in wanting Section No. 3 wiped out entirely.

Douglas, commenting on the O'Mahoney-Mundt jury trial plan, has said the kind of jury trial amendment they have in mind would wind up meaning a jury trial in all cases involving voting rights.

Sen. Francis Case, Mundt's fellow Republican from South Dakota, announced he was drafting an amendment to limit the enforcement provisions of Eisenhower's bill to voting rights.

Id the Southerners have been able to convince this many people in a week's time that the bill needs changing and softening, they ought to do pretty well in the weeks of debate that lie ahead.

Under this an individual who disobeyed a judge's order to stop interfering with a Negro's voting efforts could be tried by the judge himself, and jailed for contempt, without jury trial. There is no jury requirement, either, for violations of the bill.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are two 14-year-old girls in need of advice. Our parents permit us to date but can't afford to give us nice clothes and extra money. We'd like to work, but our folks say "no." In our neighborhood, people can't afford baby-sitting.

We're responsible girls (we think) and would like to do something to earn extra money. Can you tell us what we can do, and above all, how we can convince our parents to give permission? — KAY AND HARRIET

Dear Kay and Harriet: Baby-sitting is, of course, your best bet. You say that in your neighborhood people can't afford to hire baby-sitters. Since you live in a city where transportation is most efficient, work outside the neighborhood. Get to the job under your own steam, but specify that your parents may be more amenable if you agree to work together. Of course this cuts down the revenue for each, but at least gives you some money.

Give your own neighborhood another chance. Parents want to get out together, even if finances are low. Maybe you could swap baby-sitting sessions for a new dress if your employer happens to be a good seamstress.

To prove adequate as a baby-sitter, you must know something about children, and your responsibilities when you are in charge of them. If you would like some helpful information along this line, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a leaflet, "You're in Charge!" Those who hire baby-sitters will also find it a useful and practical guide.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 14 years old and have been married five years. We have no children as yet, since both my husband and I work. At first we were very very happy together, but now I'm coming to realize more and more that I'm only the second person in his life—his mother comes first. I've always thought a lot of my mother-in-law. Now I'm beginning to resent her.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How about quitting the job and starting with that family? Don't you realize that time's a-wastin'? Bring a new interest into the family and everyone will change attitudes.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Dick and I were childhood sweethearts and have recently been dating again after a lapse of some years. We agreed that neither of us would get serious but now he's breaking the agreement. He's offered me his class ring, which would mean going steady, and I don't want it. I like him very much, but only as a friend. — HOPE

Dear Hope: Since you can't come to terms on anything else, agree to disagree. Break up and play the field.

on that life seems like it is going to go on forever. After all, as we know, age and time are really only relative. We are as young as we feel. A moment or a day or a year can seem long or short, depending on how we feel.

Here are a few tips on how to make your life seem endless.

1. Marry a woman who prides herself in never getting anywhere on time. Every night you take her out, as you sit on the sofa waiting while she dresses, you can live several lifetimes.
2. Don't take a job that is fresh, exciting or challenging. Pick one that is dull, routine and safe. The deeper in a run you get, the longer it will take every day to crawl by.
3. Borrow money. Buy everything on the installment plan. Remember, a man in debt can't afford to die.
4. Avoid friends, make all the enemies you can. Friends have a habit of dying young, and leaving you mournful. But enemies spur you on with a desire to outlive them.
5. Engage in all the lawsuits you can. A man who is always suing everybody is looking for justice, and you know how long it takes to get justice in this world.
6. Be afraid of everything you can. Every minute of fear seems like an eternity. The brave man dies but once. Be a coward and you can live through a thousand deaths.
7. Do something wrong every day to build up your sense of guilt. There's nothing like a guilty feeling to make each day wear longer.
8. Avoid joy, seek boredom. Time always weighs heaviest with the bored, but a guy having fun is so busy, he hardly realizes he's living.

Anyone who conscientiously follows these rules is bound to come as close to a feeling of personal immortality as human nature allows. He may not live forever, but he will live the feeling his decayed existence is endless, and his life will last 10 times as long as life does to the fellow who fritters it away enjoying himself.

Marianna Mayor Quits to Be Judge

MARIANNA, Ark. — W. L. Ward Jr., serving his fifth consecutive term as mayor here, has resigned to accept an appointment as municipal judge.

Leonard W. Moody was named by the city council to fill Ward's unexpired term — the remainder of this year. Ward was appointed by Gov. Orval Faubus to succeed the late Municipal Judge Hal B. Mixon.

photographs," Mahaffey said. He added that his newspapers made no request for picture coverage of the trial.
